

Solidaric Europe.

Together Against Racism

A wide range of initiatives are possible for a Europe that is solidarity-based and humane. Civil society should become active to achieve this.

The International Day Against Racism, around March 21st, is suitable for this. This day is a focal point for initiatives and collaborations and can be extended to one or more weeks.

Much work is required to reduce racism and right-wing populism in European countries. With a German-language Initiative as a model we aim to start this work. We are looking forward to activities in also other countries and languages.

We will start with exemplary initiatives around March 21st 2022:

- Thematic events such as lectures, discussions or readings in which other cooperation partners and, above all, people affected by racism are involved;
- Convince prominent personalities to support the UN Day and the Weeks against Racism;
- Conversations between police and people affected by racism;
- Religious celebrations, involving people of other religions, in order to reduce mutual reservations;
- Anti-racist Tours along places of remembrance, synagogues, mosques or refugee shelters;
- Many creative possibilities are also possible: e.g. in schools, the fire brigade, in sports, at clubs, companies or municipalities.

The undersigned will make an effort to initiate one or more events around March 21, 2022:

Geert Ates, Amsterdam, Netherlands

Eva Balcarova, Prague, Czech Republic

Günter Burkhardt, Frankfurt / M., Germany
